

Review of Economic Studies May Meetings – Munich, 22-23 May 2009

Twenty years ago the Review of Economic Studies started organizing a yearly European tour of some of the most promising graduating Ph.D. students from North America and Europe (selected by a foreign editor of the Review). The aim of this seminar series is to foster links with these young economists at an early stage of their career, and to learn about their research.

For the third time after 2002 and 2005, the Review Tour will come to Munich on Friday 22 and Saturday 23 May 2009. The other two legs of the tour are Brussels and Oxford.

This year's speakers are:

- David Atkin, Princeton (Development)
- Richard Hornbeck, MIT (History)
- Oleg Itskhoki, Harvard (International)
- Greg Kaplan, NYU (Macro/Labor)
- Mihai Manea, Harvard (Theory)
- Eric Weese, MIT (Political Economy)
- Ali Yurukoglu, NYU Stern (IO)

The Munich meeting will start at 2pm on Friday 22 May and end after lunch on Saturday 23. There will be a conference dinner on Friday evening.

Members of the SFB TR 15 are cordially invited to attend the meeting. Travel costs, accommodation and meals will be covered by the Review and the Munich Graduate School of Economics.

If wish to attend the Munich meeting, please send an email to Sven Rady (sven.rady@lrz.uni-muenchen.de). The deadline for this is April 10.
